MESSAGE FROM CHAIRMAN

DR. MAHENDRA MOHAN GUPTA

Dear Students,

It gives me immense pride to connect with the bright and ambitious minds of Jagran Institute of Management. You stand at the threshold of a future filled with opportunities, challenges, and limitless possibilities. As you navigate this critical phase of your academic and professional journey, I encourage you to embrace three timeless values—curiosity, resilience, and purpose.

Curiosity fuels innovation. In today's fast-changing world, success requires an unquenchable thirst for knowledge. Ask questions, challenge the status quo, and never stop learning. Every new insight—no matter how small—shapes your unique perspective and unlocks your potential.

Resilience will be your guiding strength in adversity. The path to success is rarely straight; it is often marked by setbacks and obstacles. Remember, failures are not barriers but stepping stones. Your ability to adapt, learn, and rise stronger after each challenge will define your journey.

Purpose gives meaning to your efforts. Amid the pursuit of achievement, never lose sight of the bigger picture. Strive not only for personal success but also to create a positive impact—on your community, your industry, and society at large. You are the architects of a better tomorrow, and your contributions will shape the future.

The success of this magazine is a reflection of the creativity, hard work, and collaboration of both our students and faculty. Their research, articles, and collective efforts celebrate the intellectual vibrancy that defines JIM.

May this magazine inspire you, enrich your knowledge, and create cherished memories. Continue to push boundaries, embrace challenges, and pursue excellence in all that you do.

Wishing you success, wisdom, and the courage to build a meaningful future.

MESSAGE FROM VICE CHAIRPERSON

MS. RITU GUPTA

Dear Students,

Every time I walk through the campus of Jagran Institute of Management, I am filled with pride and hope. This institution is more than just a center of learning-it is a living, breathing ecosystem of dreams, aspirations, and transformative journeys. It gives me immense joy to witness the energy, passion, and creativity that each of you brings into this space.

As Vice Chairperson, I have always believed that true education goes beyond books and classrooms. It is about building character, nurturing curiosity, and preparing young minds to face the real world with resilience and confidence. At JIM, we strive to create an environment that not only imparts knowledge but also inspires purpose.

Let this phase of your life be more than a pursuit of grades or placements. Let it be about discovering who you are and who you wish to become. Step outside your comfort zone. Join that club, start that project, ask that question, even if you're unsure. Every step you take-no matter how small-adds to your growth. Mistakes, too, are part of this journey. Don't fear them; learn from them. They are often the stepping stones to your greatest breakthroughs.

At JIM, our efforts are deeply rooted in our commitment to society and industry alike. We continuously seek to strengthen our engagement with the professional world, while staying grounded in our values. Through this publication, and many other initiatives, we celebrate not only academic excellence, but also innovation, social impact, and holistic development.

As you move forward, believe in your potential and stay open to learning-always. The world needs leaders who are compassionate, courageous, and creative. I have no doubt that many such leaders are being shaped right here, within these very halls.

With my warmest wishes and unwavering belief in your journey,

How Colleges Are Actively Nurturing Entrepreneurship from Day One

Ms. Sneha Gupta
MBA (2025-27)

In today's education system, entrepreneurship is no longer an afterthought—it's becoming the heart of learning. Earlier, MBA students usually received their first entrepreneurial mini-projects only in the second year, often treated as an academic formality. Now, colleges are introducing these projects right from the first year, turning classrooms into start-up labs and teachers into mentors.

Early Start, Greater Impact

Starting entrepreneurial projects early gives students Confidence through pitching and presenting real ideas, Practical exposure to markets, finance, and customer needs. A risk-taking mind-set, helping them handle uncertainty better. This shift transforms projects from mere grades into opportunities to create meaningful solutions.

Teachers as Mentors

Professors now guide students in connecting with incubators, industry experts, and investors. Their role is no longer limited to evaluating, but to mentoring and shaping real-world ventures.

National Growth

Encouraging entrepreneurship early creates a ripple effect on the nation by fostering more job creators than job seekers, sparking fresh innovation from young minds free of rigid structures, and driving economic growth as student-led start-ups boost GDP and local economies.

The Bigger Picture

By embedding entrepreneurship in the first year of learning, colleges are preparing graduates not just as professionals, but as innovators and leaders. This change positions India as a youth-driven hub of creativity and problem-solving, ensuring entrepreneurship is about more than starting businesses—it's about transforming ideas into impact.

Ms. Amisha Tripathi
MBA (2024-26)

Don't underestimate the power of the small!

Micro-greens offer a simple, delicious, and eco-friendly way to enhance the goodness of your meals and nourish your body. Whether you're a health enthusiast, home cook or beginner gardener, these tiny greens deliver mighty benefits that make a big impact.

The question arise here is, what is actually micro-greens? So the Micro-greens are the young, tender shoots of vegetables and herbs, harvested just after the first true leaves appear—usually within 7 to 21 days of germination. These tiny greens are nutritional powerhouses, often containing significantly higher levels of vitamins, minerals, and antioxidants than their mature plant counterparts.

Research shows that micro-greens such as red cabbage, broccoli, kale, and radish can have up to 40 times more nutrients per gram. For example, broccoli micro-greens are rich in sulforaphane, a compound known for its cancer-fighting properties. Others are packed with vitamin C, E, beta-carotene and essential minerals that support immunity, heart health, and overall well-being.

Growing micro-greens is also easy and sustainable. They require little space, soil, or water, making them perfect for urban living or indoor gardening. In just a few weeks, you can harvest fresh greens right from your windowsill.

In the world of nutrition, micro-greens prove that good things truly do come in small packages. Their intense flavour, visual appeal and exceptional health benefits make them a smart and sustainable choice for anyone looking to boost their diet. Whether you're a gourmet cook or a novice gardener, micro-greens offer an easy and impactful way to nourish your body and delight your palate.

The evolving role of HR managers in managing the hybrid workforce in Indian Start-up

Mr. Suneel
MBA (2024-26)

The role of HR managers in Indian start-ups has undergone a significant transformation from the post-pandemic period to the present AI-driven era. During the pandemic, HR professionals were primarily focused on adapting quickly to remote and hybrid work models, ensuring employee well-being, fostering virtual collaboration, and maintaining engagement. This period highlighted the importance of empathy, communication, and flexibility in managing a distributed workforce.

In the AI era, HR's responsibilities have expanded further to include leading digital transformation within organizations. HR managers are now expected to integrate technology into every aspect of their function—recruitment, performance management, learning and development, and employee engagement. Managing hybrid teams today demands a delicate balance of maintaining organizational culture, building trust, and driving productivity across both physical and virtual environments. For Indian start-ups, where agility and innovation are crucial, HR has evolved into a strategic function. By blending empathy with technology, HR managers are pivotal in attracting, retaining, and developing talent in a competitive market.

The future of HR is here—and it's hybrid, human, and high-tech.

The Art of Mind-fullness: Practice in everyday Life

Ms. Meghna Dwivedi
MBA (2024-26)

In today's fast-paced, digitally driven world, slowing down and being present is no longer a luxury—it's a necessity. Mindfulness, the practice of intentionally paying attention to the present moment without judgment, helps reduce stress, improve mental clarity, and add meaning to everyday life. For college students balancing academic deadlines, social commitments, and future concerns, mindfulness can be especially valuable. It doesn't require long meditation sessions or a complete lifestyle change. Small, intentional moments—savoring your morning tea, focusing on your breath between classes, or noticing your surroundings on campus—can make a difference.

Research shows that regular mindfulness improves concentration, reduces anxiety, enhances emotional resilience, and cultivates self-awareness, enabling thoughtful responses rather than impulsive reactions. Simple practices like deep breathing before an exam, journaling without editing, or turning off notifications during meals can help integrate mindfulness into daily routines.

Mindfulness isn't about escaping reality; it's about engaging with it more fully and compassionately. While ambition is important, mindfulness reminds us that the present moment holds value too. By pausing, breathing, and returning to the now, students can cultivate a skill that benefits not only their college years but their entire life.

Winning Business Ideas for 2026

Mr. Kamal Agrawal
MBA (2025-27)

The future marketplace rewards those who adapt quickly to change. Two business models stand out as smart choices for 2026: E-Commerce and Digital Marketing Agencies.

Online shopping is booming and will keep expanding. E-commerce offers low startup costs, flexibility, and global reach. To begin, choose a product or service, register a domain, build a website, and set up secure payment options. With the right strategy, small stores can grow into strong brands.

Digital Marketing Agency

As more companies move online, the need for digital marketing is skyrocketing. Starting an agency requires digital skills, a portfolio, and a pricing plan. It offers high profit potential and can be run from anywhere. Services like SEO, social media marketing, and online ads will always be in demand.

Why These Ideas Work

Both fields thrive on digital growth, remote work, and global connectivity. They are scalable, cost- friendly, and future-ready—perfect for entrepreneurs aiming to stay ahead.

RE - CONNECT ALUMNI MEET 2025

An alumni meet is more than a gathering—it is a journey back in time, a celebration of memories, achievements, and friendships. Like a time capsule, it revives laughter, challenges overcome, and the bonds built within our alma mater.

This year, the Jagran Institute of Management proudly hosted Re-Connect, a grand reunion for MCA, MBA, and PGDM graduates across batches. The campus came alive as past and present united, turning the evening into a vibrant celebration of togetherness.

The essence of Re-Connect lay in rekindling old ties and building new ones. From recognizing familiar faces to sharing success stories and reliving college days, the event created a lasting sense of belonging. Faculty members rejoiced at the achievements of their former students, while inspiring talks, panel discussions, and engaging activities kept the energy flowing.

A highlight of the evening was the felicitation of distinguished alumni, followed by cultural performances and warm conversations that filled the air with nostalgia.

As the event concluded, gratitude and joy echoed everywhere. Re-Connect reminded us that no matter where life takes us, the Jagran family will always remain a part of who we are—until we meet again with even greater anticipation.
